REPUBLICAN TICKET.

FOR PRESIDENT.
BENJAMIN HARRISON,
OF INDIANA.

FOR VICE PRESIDENT.
LEVI P. MORTON,
OF NEW YORK.

STILL WITH THE REPUBLICANS

It is acknowledged by the Chicago Tribune, which has not yet ceased its grumbling about the republican platform, that there seems to be little doubt that the Harrison and Morton ticket will get the full Blaine Irish republican vote in November, with large additions, due to the sharply defined issue on the question of protection, on which the platform is sufficiently ultra for the most extreme anti-English Irishman. Mr. Patrick Ford of the Irish World, though disappointed that Blaine is not the nominee, has pronounced already in favor of the republican ticket. In a telegram from his pepor to Chicago, he said:

The result of the Chicago convention, although a disappointment to the ardent admirers of Blaine, and especially to the Irish, is not unacceptable to republicans generally. The nominees are worthy gentlemen and the platform has the true ring in it.

Mr. John F. Finerty, one of the most prominent Irish-Americans in the west, and editor of the Chicago Citizen, is enthusiastic for the republican ticket. He says, after complimenting the candidates personally and discussing the platform, which is entirely to his liking:

The English press rejoiced at the renomination of Cleveland; it is entirely against Harrison, his party, and its programme; these facts ought to be sufficient to open the eyes of every American who is a patriot, and of every Irishman who is not under political delusion. Irish-American voters should show the world that they are not worshippers of men more than of principles, and that it was not Blaine they supported four years ago, but the political and economical principles of which he was the embodiment. Harrison represents the same political ideas that Blaine represented; and every Irishman who voted for Blaine and Logan in 1884 can consistently vote for Harrison and Morton in 1888.

The spirit of the intelligent Irish-American is against the theories of the democratic party. There are now in New York scores of Irish-American tariff clubs being formed, and their influence will be largely felt in the campaign. There is not a single principle in the record of the democratic party that the Irish-Americans, or any one else, should have any respect for. Judged by its history, it is a dishonor to American politics. The democratic party of 1888, is substantially the democratic party of 1860, when it asserted the right of states to secede, for year by year in its platforms it pledges itself anew to the traditions of the democratic party.

REPUBLICAN ENTHUSIASM.

The republicans at Madison held a rousing ratification on Saturday night, at which Governor Rusk presided. A dispatch says that the vice presidents for the evening included a large number of those who voted for William Henry Harrison in 1840. The only speaker from abroad was the Hon. J. W. Murphy, district attorney of Grant county, a very eloquent and forcible speaker. The Hon. John A. Johnson, of Madison, who supported Cleveland in 1884, and who was candidate for state treasurer on the democratic ticket in 1886, was among the speakers. It is said that General Attorney of the State Journal, in the course of his remarks, took occasion to sing with [illegible] the following arrangement of "Tippecanoe and Tyler too" song in the great campaign [illegible]

WHAT IS HE, ANYWAY?

The Nashville American is the organ of the democracy, although it is an expounder of the gospel according to protection. Only a few weeks ago, the Gazette reproduced from the American an opinion that if the national democratic convention should endorse Mr. Cleveland's free trade message, the democratic party would lose Indiana, Connecticut, New Jersey and New York, and very likely Tennessee.

The other day the American, come out with this editorial note:

A few mugwumps, mostly in New England, falling into Henry Watterson's doctrine of absolute free trade—to be reached, as they say, a step at a time—have undertaken to put President Cleveland before the country as a free trader, as several of them have asserted that he is a free trader.

That this mugwump element, backed by a few free trade democrats, intend to advance the British doctrine of free trade by using Mr. Cleveland's great popularity, without any regard to his success, and without any care for the democratic party is as manifest as that sin and crime are prevalent in the land.

Mr. Cleveland knows, and every man of sense in the country knows, that to put him on the line of free trade, while it may advance that heresy, will defeat him.

We intend, in the interest of the great party that repudiated free trade in 1884 and again at St. Louis, to expose and hold up to public gaze this crowd of hypocrites—mugwumps—now working in the interest of British capital and for making the democratic party a free trade party.

The Nashville American will find it pretty hard work to attempt to support Cleveland and at the same time stick to its protection policy. All the mugwumps support him because he is a free trader. All the leading democrats support him because he is a free trader. If the mugwumps are hypocrites, as the American says they are, so are the men that nominated Cleveland at St. Louis. The Cobden clubs support Mr. Cleveland because he is a free trader. The British press supports him because he represents the British theory of free trade.

The hardest task the Nashville American has on its hands this campaign is to prove that Cleveland is in sympathy with the republican policy of protection.

It will be remembered that while the war was in progress General Harrison unbuckled his sword, laid down his haversack and went home to fill a snug civil office, leaving poor Mr. Cleveland's substitute to struggle on to the end. Suppose we drop the war and discuss the tariff.—New York World.

Has the New York World got a short memory? Didn't it say the other day that it would not publish an untruth about the republican candidate for the presidency? If the World has read the life of General Harrison, it will remember that he laid down a lucrative office when he buckled on the sword; and while he was absent he was kicked out by a democratic legislature. He continued in the army until the close of the war and passed in the grand review at Washington at the head of his decimated command." Even the mugwump papers say that his army record is a splendid honor to the man.

The Mugwump Boston Herald on the ticket: There is no reason why any party man of the republicans who is satisfied with its platform should not vote for Mr. Harrison. He is a pure man; he is more than sound on the party tenets; he has ability beyond men who have been republican nominees for the presidency. In the service of his party in his state he was a decided success. It is no small thing in a state so carefully contested as Indiana has been to be given the acknowledged lead of the republican forces. This was readily accorded to Mr. Harrison.

The editor of the Chicago Advance, a religious newspaper, which has made some bitter attacks on the republican party, sat in the national republican convention most of the time during its sessions, and then went to his office and wrote as follows: "It was a wonderfully good looking assemblage. One could not but feel proud of his country. One was moved to exult in the institutions and the government that produced such men and women: It made it seem easy to be patriotic and devoutly grateful to God." It is very evident that the editor of the Advance will vote the republican ticket.

The public acts of Mr. Cleveland are subjects for criticism. The country must take note by them; and so it appears that since May, 1886, he has vetoed 136 special acts of congress granting pensions to aged or infirm veterans, or the widows or dependent parents of soldiers. Some of the executive documents accompanying the vetoes were couched in abusive and derisive language, and no better campaign material could be circulated among the old soldiers than a compilation of the brutal utterances of a large number of those pension veto messages.

"The first concern of all good government is the virtue and sobriety of the people and the purity of the home. The republican party cordially sympathizes with all wise and well directed efforts for the promotion of temperance and morality."

This is the temperance plank in the republican platform. It is good, and is in accord with the record of the republican party. This is why the democrats do not like the platform.

You never hear a third party prohibitionist crying "smash the democratic party;" neither do you hear the liquor league cry "smash the democratic party." The cry of both is "smash the republican party." There is a significance in this chorus.

---

If the democrats believe in the traditions and principles of their party, why don't they revive the issues of 1840? In 1888 will they go back on their party when Van Buren was their leader? Van Burenism and Clevelandism are the same.

---

New York Sun calls attention to the fact that the republican party is now for the first time in eight years, united and its factions reconciled. It is not necessary to call the attention of the country to that fact. The democrats understand it perfectly well, and that is why they are fearing defeat.

---

Washington Post, democratic: The Chicago ticket is strong enough for all practical purposes. General Harrison is a thoroughly respectable candidate, and the republicans can elect him if they can elect anybody.

A FIEND'S CONFESSION.

A Barbarous Mode of Getting Rid of a Husband.

A CHICAGO WOMAN'S AWFUL CRIME.

She Discovers Her Better-Half Lying Drunk on the Doorstep, Saturates His Clothing with Kerosene, Ignites It, and He Burns to Death

MET A TERRIBLE DEATH.

CHICAGO, July 2.—Mathias Schreiner was murdered by his wife a week ago last Sunday. She has confessed, and is now locked up at the Chicago avenue police station charged with the murder. The case is one of the most extraordinary in the history of crime in this city. Schreiner was a carpenter, living at 204 Mohawk street, and the family consisted of his wife, Mary Magdalen Schreiner, his mother-in-law, Mrs. Magner, and William, Keiffer, a boarder. Last Sunday, a week ago Schreiner was away all day and became drunk. He went home at 11 o'clock at night and he and his wife and Keiffer drank several pails of beer. Mrs. Schreiner tried to get her husband to bed about midnight, but he had fallen asleep at the foot of the stairway leading to the flat where they lived, and would not move. During the night, or, rather, early in the morning, he was seen running down the alley on fire, and when stopped and the fire put out was terribly burned. Death ended his agony on the following morning. His wife, Mrs. Wagner, and Keiffer denied all knowledge of the affair, but yesterday Mrs. Schreiner acknowledged her guilt. Her story, to which she made an affidavit, is as follows:

"My husband was gone all day Sunday, returning in the evening under the influence of liquor. We sat down on the stairs and we had half a dozen pails of beer. William Keiffer was there and left about 11 o'clock. I sat there an hour longer, and, as usual, quarreled with my husband. About midnight I went into the house and laid down upon the bed with my clothes on. At 2 o'clock I got up, and, looking out of the window, saw my husband lying on the walk. I can not tell what possessed me, but I took the oil, and, going out to where he was lying, poured the oil on his back. I then lighted a match and touched it to his clothing. He was covered with fire before I left him to run back into the house. I staid in my room for a few minutes, when I was arrested by the police. My mother had nothing to do with it. I did not counsel with her previous to committing the crime. I never thought of the insurance money and only wanted to get rid of my husband. I will plead guilty and take the consequences."

While not admitting the fact it is thought by the police that he was murdered in order that his wife might secure an insurance of $1,000 in the Catholic Foresters. Schreiner had made the policy out in the name of A. Bozer, a friend, but was induced to change it in favor of his wife a few weeks ago.

TRADE IS DULL.

A Reaction from the Over-Confidence of Last Winter.

NEW YORK, July 2.—R. G. Dun & Co., in their weekly review of trade, have the following: The half-year closes with a volume of business at this date about 10 per cent. smaller than that of last year, but larger than that of previous years. The general complaint that business is dull means that the reaction from the greater activity of a year ago and from the confident expectations of last winter is keenly felt. To very many traders who bought largely in their over-confidence the shrinkage brings serious losses or actual embarrassment, and to this cause is mainly due the increase noted during the recent month in the number of failures. For the last quarter failures number 4,341 in the United States, against 1,905 for the same quarter last year, and in Canada 349, against 315. In amount of liabilities there is also an increase in the United States—$20,220,950, against $23,376,930 last year, but a decrease in Canada—$2,781,071, against $3,207,986 last year.

The latest reports of exchanges show a decrease in the volume of business in comparison with last year of 18 per cent. at New York and 10.7 per cent. outside of New York. In foreign trade exports fall below last year for June about 8½ per cent., while imports slightly increase. The value of exports for the fiscal year has probably been about $697,000,000 and of imports about $722,000,000. No gold of consequence has gone abroad.

Giving the Women a Chance.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., July 2.—Governor Oglesby has made a handsome innovation in the educational affairs of the State by the appointment of Mrs. Ella F. Young, assistant superintendent of the city schools of Chicago, to fill the vacancy on the State Board of Education caused by the death of B. Groots, of Tamaroa, and Mrs. Mary F. Foltschaus, of Springfield, to succeed Isaac Leech, of Quincy, resigned from the same board. These are the first women ever appointed to the Board of Education of the State.

The President Will Visit Newport.

BOSTON, Mass., July 2.—Colonel Lamont, the President's private secretary, has secured for himself and Mrs. Lamont a handsome family suite of apartments at the cottage of Mr. Charles Weeden at Jamestown, which lies between Newport and the Narragansett country. The explanation of this is that the President and Mrs. Cleveland have determined to come to Newport and accept of the many invitations extened to them.

Flint Glass Factories Closed.

PITTSBURGH, Pa. July 2.—The summer shut-down of the flint glass factories has commenced. All the factories in the country have banked their fires, and the 6,000 employes will take a rest for six weeks. The annual wage conference of the flint glass and chimney blowers will begin on Monday. No important changes in the scale are probable.

Grover Too Busy to Visit.

WASHINGTON, July 2.—The President has informed the Cincinnati Exposition Committee that on account of the pressure of private business he can not accept its invitation to attend the exposition at this time. He has now in his hands 190 bills that must be examined and disposed of during the coming week.

No Foreign Money Wanted.

BERLIN, July 2.—Beginning at once the circulation of foreign coin will be prohibited throughout the German Empire, except in districts near the Austrian and Swiss frontiers. This measure is mainly directed against the French coin in circulation in Alsace-Lorraine.

Seventeen-Year Locusts in Wisconsin.

BARABOO, Wis., July 2.—The seventeen-year locusts have made their appearance in the southeastern part of this county, and the farmers are greatly alarmed that they will ruin their crops.

General John B. McIntosh Dead.

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., July 2.—General John B. McIntosh, United States Army, retired, died at his residence in this city of heart disease, aged 60 years.

TROUBLES OF THE IRON MEN.

The Great Lock-Out Begins and the Prospects Are Good for a Long and Bitter Fight.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., July 2.—The big lock-out of the iron-workers practically commenced Saturday. The old scale expired, and as no agreement was reached at Friday afternoon's conference the mills all closed at noon Saturday, and what may be a long rest of the men had at last begun. So far eight firms have signed the scale. Among them are the Apollo, Pa., Iron & Steel Company, the Akron, O., Iron Company, the Mingo Junction, O., Iron & Steel Company, the Cleveland Hardware Company, the Lookout Rolling Mill Company, of Chattanooga, Tenn., and Oliver Bros. & Phillips, of this city, who employ 3,000. D. S. Oliver said last evening that their Tenth street mill would probably resume to-day, and that their other factories would be started as soon as required. Said he: "I don't think our action will influence other manufacturers. I anticipate a long fight, as the men are determined to resist the reduction and the manufacturers are equally determined to reduce the large difference which now exists between Amalgamated prices in Pittsburgh and those in the East."

MILWAUKEE, July 2.—The big plant of the North Chicago rolling-mills was closed Saturday for an indefinite period, the single blast furnace being the only portion of the mills that will continue in operation. The stoppage is not the result of any disagreement between the local assembly of the Amalgamated Association and the proprietors, but is caused by the action of the members of the union at Pittsburgh. The best feeling exists between the men and their employes and both sides will passively await the end of the war in the East.

LIVES LOST IN SAILING.

Ten Men Drowned in the Sound—A Party from Port Chester Caught in a Gale and All Missing.

PORT CHESTER, N. Y., July 2.—Ten young men of this village lost their lives in Long Island Sound Saturday. About 7 o'clock William Hubbard and Burt Flint, both married and having children, and Frank Heyworth, Albert Merrifield, Max Smith, Patrick Shea, Michael Roger, Alexander Desneney, John and Edward Roberts, brothers, single, left the harbor in a boat twenty feet in length. It was schooner rigged, with two small sails. They headed for Captain's Island, about two miles from the harbor. At 8 o'clock they were seen outside the island by boatsmen who were coming from Long Island. The sound was then calm, and the party were having a good time. Their little craft was loaded down nearly to the water's edge. A sudden gale began to blow at 9 o'clock, and its force increased so that no ordinary craft could weather it. Those who knew that the men from this harbor were out in the small boat felt grave apprehensions, and when they learned yesterday morning that no tidings had been received from them they were convinced that the party had met death in the sound. Their suspicions were well founded. The boat was found on the Long Island shore, near Oyster bay, having drifted there bottom side upward. The searching party sent out from here yesterday accept this as conclusive evidence that the men have been drowned.

MANY MONUMENTS DEDICATED.

Former Wearers of the Blue and the Gray Fraternize on the Spot Where the Blood of Both Armies Flowed Freely.

SEVERAL STIRRING SPEECHES.

GETTYSBURG, Pa., July 2.—Wisconsin dedicated her seven monuments Saturday on the Gettysburg battlefield. The exercises were held at Reynolds Grove, and within a few feet of where that General was killed during the first day's engagement. When Captain L. E. Pond, president of the commission, called the gathering to order and transferred the monuments to the representative of the Governor of Wisconsin, the level space before the stand was crowded with the veterans of the Wisconsin regiments. Governor Rusk was not present, and the State Treasurer, Colonel H. B. Harshaw, accepted the monuments on behalf of the State. United States Senator Spooner then delivered an eloquent oration. The monuments were then formally presented to the Gettysburg Battlefield Memorial Association by General Lucius Fairchild. General Fairchild spoke with great feeling, and many of the veterans were moved to tears. Governor Beaver, as ex-officio President of the Memorial Association, received the memorials in the name of the association, promising to guard and protect them. This closed the formal dedicatory exercises, but a number of speeches were afterward made by prominent Wisconsin men. The seven Wisconsin monuments are splendid structures, and are those of Third, Fifth, Second, Seventh, Sixth, Twenty-sixth and Company G, First Regiment Sharpshooters.

Saturday afternoon the exercises of the New Jersey veterans were held at the brigade monument north of Round Top. The National Guard deployed into the woods on the right and the Governors sat at the range out from their guns. The First Regiment Band opened the exercises and the assembly was called to order by Colonel James N. Duff, chairman of the Gettysburg Monument Commission of New Jersey. The invocation by Rev. Anson R. Hains, late chaplain of the Fifteenth Regiment, was followed by the unveiling of the brigade monument by the commission. Governor Green delivered the oration and transferred the monuments to the Gettysburg Memorial Association, and Governor James A. Beaver received them in the name of the association. Brief addresses were then made by surviving members of the several New Jersey commands engaged.

At 10:30 yesterday morning the veterans formed and, led by the Frankfort Band, marched to the National Cemetery, and on through this to the vine-clad rostrum where religious services were held. The scene was unusually impressive. More than a thousand voices joined in singing "America." In the evening the usual dress parade was observed.

At 2 o'clock p. m. the road from town to Reynold's Grove was crowded with carriages and pedestrians on their way to witness the exercises of the First Corps. Bishop Potter made a most eloquent prayer. Major E. P. Halstead, president of the association of the first corps, introduced Governor Beaver, who delivered the address of welcome. Ex-Governor John C. Robinson, of New York, resting on his crutches, responded in behalf of the corps. Frederick Smythe, the war Governor of New Hampshire, made a short address. Governor T. J. Ormsbee, of Vermont, also spoke. Colonel L. A. Grant, who commanded the First Vermont Brigade in the Sixth Corps, next made a few remarks. W. G. Veasey, Judge of the Supreme Court of Vermont, who commanded the Sixteenth Regiment of Stannard's Brigade during the battle, made a stirring address. General Longstreet was given a rousing reception. He said:

"I was not in time to witness any part of the engagement of the first day of Gettysburg, but am pleased to be here in time to witness these ceremonies and to express that sympathy which should go out from all hearts to those who know how to appreciate the conduct of soldiers who offer their lives on the altar of their country. The gauge of battle was pitched and here the great army of the South, the pride and glory of that section, found itself overmatched, arrested in its march of triumph, and forced to stand and recoil, but not for want of gallantry, fortitude or faith. The battle of the second day by McLane's and Hood's Divisions and part of Anderson's was as spirited as some of the dashing efforts of the first Napoleon, but before the end it was found to be work to upheave the mountain. That of the third day by Pickett's Division and Trumble's marching 1,200 yards under the fire of 100 cannon and 10,000 of musketry has no parallel nor is not likely to have in the annals of war. This battle scene recurs to my mind with vivid force. But times have changed. Twenty-five years have softened the usages of war. Those frowning heights have given over their savage tone, and our meetings for the exchange of blows and broken bones are left for more congenial days and for friendly greetings."

The band played "Dixie" before Longstreet's speech and "Yankee Doodle," after which General Fairchild was introduced. He said twenty-five years had made it possible to sandwich a Yankee and a Confederate between "Yankee Doodle" and "Dixie." The men of the North did not love the men of the South less, but they loved the old flag more; and the men of the South did not love the old flag less, but they loved States' sovereignty more. The old flag still remained, and all said amen, from the gulf to the lakes.

Prof. Williams, representing Governor Sprague, of Rhode Island, followed. After him the assemblage was addressed by numerous other persons of prominence in the First Corps, and at about 5 o'clock the meeting broke up and the crowd dispersed over the battle-field to inspect the various memorials. At fifteen minutes before 5 o'clock the Ninth New York Militia, Colonel William Seward commanding, acting as escorts to the survivors of the Eighty-third New York Regiment, led the march toward the monument of that command on Seminary ridge.

The procession moved on out the pike to Reynolds avenue and along the crest of Seminary ridge to the monument, which is near the Mummasburg road. The infantry formed a square around this and the exercises were opened with an invocation by Rev. Alfred E. Roe, the Chaplain of the Eighty-third. The oration was delivered by Orlando B. Potter and the monument was received for the Battle-Field Memorial Association by J. M. Vandersllce. Rowland B. Mahony read the poem. The exercises were closed with three volleys of musketry by the Ninth Infantry. This closed the exercises of the day.

The other monuments dedicated on the field during the day were the Fifty-fourth and One Hundred and Thirty-fourth New York Infantry on the Eleventh Corps avenue; the Thirty-ninth New York in the Second Corps line, and the Seventy-sixth, Ninety-seventh and One Hundred and Forty-seventh New York on the first day's field, Reynold's avenue. At the monument of the Thirty-ninth (Garibaldi Guards) Captain Clarke, of New York, delivered the oration. At the Ninety-Seventh H. E. Turner, of Lowville, was the orator. At the One Hundred and Forty-seventh General J. Volney Pierce, of Kansas, formerly a Captain in the regiment, delivered the oration. The One Hundred and Twelfth and Forty-Fifth New York also dedicated their monuments.

Bishop Newman preached in the college church last night for the benefit of the First Corps to a crowded house.

HE WILL RUN.

Candidate Cowdrey, of the United Labor Party, Accepts the Nomination for the Presidency.

CINCINNATI, July 2.—The letter of acceptance of Robert H. Cowdrey, candidate of the United Labor party for the Presidency, was made public Friday. It is dated Chicago, and is addressed to William B. Ogden, chairman, and Alfred S. Houghton, secretary of the National Campaign Committee. Mr. Cowdrey declares that his duty seems so clear that he can not do otherwise than accept, adding that he believes the United Labor party to be representative of the fundamental principle of equal justice to all, and that the policy it would adopt would make the constitution a declaration of living principles. He continues:

"I know that many reforms are needed; that an oppressed and tax-burdened people appeal to us for aid that monopolies in ever-increasing numbers are taking more than their just share of that which is produced, but I also know that all increase in the prosperity of the people is absorbed by the speculators in the land, and so long as this is the case it is useless to attempt to correct these evils unless we strike at the foundation on which they stand. The land reform strikes to the foundation, and for that reason is not only the best, but the most rapid means of accomplishing all these reforms. When all taxes have been taken off the industries and the production of wealth is no longer punished by a fine, and when all taxes have been placed upon the rental value of the land and the people see the good results, and understand why it should be so, then our greatest work will have been accomplished, for then it will be plain that all payments for work in every occupation depend upon the amount of food a day's labor on the land will produce, and knowing this it will be evident that all the owner of the land takes from the producer as rent must reduce the wages not only of the worker on the land, but also the wages in every other occupation.

"I see no hope of reform in either of the old political parties; ours must be the work of educating the people to demand the adoption of this reform. Let us then present a solid front, our battle cry 'The single tax,' and press forward to the victory that awaits us. Yours fraternally, ROBERT H. COWDREY."

SHERIDAN SETS SAIL.

The Sick Warrior En Route for Massachusetts in Search of Health.

WASHINGTON, July 2.—General Sheridan was safely placed on the warship Swatara Saturday, and is now on his way to Nonquit, Mass. The time of the trip will be regulated by the weather.

FORT MONROE, Va., July 2.—The United States steamer Swatara, with General Sheridan and party on board, arrived here at 8 o'clock yesterday morning. A boat came ashore at 10 o'clock with the following bulletin, signed by Drs. O'Reilly and Yarrow:

"9 a. m.—General Sheridan passed a very comfortable day, his general condition appearing to improve after reaching the Swatara. He was somewhat restless during the night, probably because of his new surroundings. His pulse is very good and his respiration easy and natural. Owing to the careful arrangements made by the commanding officer of the Swatara the General is as comfortable as if he were in his own house."

The beneficial effect of the sea voyage on General Sheridan's condition is already apparent, and his physicians are greatly pleased with the result of the trip thus far. His pulse is stronger and his mind is clearer than it has been since his illness.

THE ANTI-SALOONISTS.

The Republicans Issue an Address Setting Forth the Party's Claims to the Temperance Vote.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., July 2.—Albert Griffin, chairman of the Anti-Saloon Republican National Committee, has issued an address to the country in which he summarizes the work of the National Republican convention on temperance matters, and appeals to voters to support the ticket nominated by the convention. He gives as reasons for his advice that the platform commits the party against the National whisky ring protection tax; that Harrison is a pronounced anti-saloonist, and that a ringing temperance plank was after all added to the platform. The friendliness of the Republican party to the temperance cause is further argued in the statement that in nearly every Republican State the legislators have in the last two years antagonized the saloon element.

Illinois Crops.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., July 2.—The weekly crop bulletin to the State Board of Agriculture states the weather for the past week has been exceedingly favorable to crops, particularly corn, and has killed off chinch bugs in Southern Illinois. The oat crop is the only one damaged by the heavy rains which have knocked down the fields of rank growth. Fair weather is now needed for the cultivation of the corn crop and to kill the weeds.

Afraid of Anarchists.

LONDON, July 2.—There are rumors of an Anarchist plot in Berlin against the life of the Emperor. Increased precautions to guard the life of the Emperor and Bismarck have been taken.

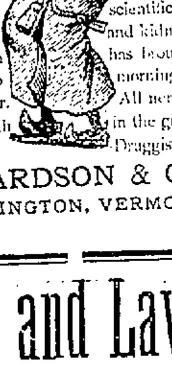
Can't Sleep!



Sleeplessness and fearful dreams are the earliest and surest signs of brain exhaustion. In healthy sleep brain force is being stored up to meet the next day's demands. But nowadays the nervous system has been so overtasked that it is unable to control the mind, and at night the worries, troubles, and work are as present as during the day. Hence the brain has not time to recuperate its energies. The proper medical remedies are sedatives, nerve tonics, laxatives, and regulators of the general functions. Coca and celery are the sedatives and nerve tonic demanded, and in Paine's Celery Compound their full beneficial effect is obtained. It also contains, in scientific proportions, the best remedies of the materia medica for constipation, and kidney and liver disorders. This is a brief description of the medicine which has brought sweet rest to thousands who tossed in sleeplessness from night to morning, or whose morbid dreams caused them to awake more tired than ever. All nervous, sleepless, debilitated or aged people will find vigor and perfect health in the great nerve tonic, PAINE'S CELERY COMPOUND. Price $1.00. Sold by Druggists. Circulars free.

NATIONAL AFFAIRS.

The Senate's Favorable Action on the Hennepin Canal Scheme.

CULLOM'S AMENDMENTS ADOPTED.

Work on the Tariff Bill in the House—Programme of Congress for This Week—Talk of Adjournment.

SENATE.

WASHINGTON, July 2.—The Senate Saturday in committee of the whole adopted the amendments which were submitted by Senator Cullom to the River and Harbor bill for the surveys of the routes of both the Hennepin canal and the Illinois river improvements. When the bill was reported to the Senate separate votes were demanded on these amendments, and, there being no quorum present, no action was taken upon them. There is little doubt, however, that they will receive favorable action. Both Senators from Illinois were absent, but the improvements were ably advocated by Senators Teller (Col.), Gorman (Md.), Allison (Ia.) and others. The amendment adopted Saturday is as follows:

"And for the purpose of securing a continuous navigable waterway between Lake Michigan and the Mississippi river, having capacity and facilities adequate for the passage of the largest Mississippi river steamboats and of naval vessels suitable for defense in time of war, the Secretary of War is authorized and directed to cause to be made the proper surveys, plans and estimates for such a canal improvement, and locks and dams in the beds of the Illinois and Desplaines rivers from La Salle to Lockport, so as to provide a navigable waterway, not less than 160 feet wide and not less than 14 feet deep, and to have surveyed and located a channel from Lockport to Lake Michigan at or near the city of Chicago, such channel to be suitable for the purposes aforesaid, the necessary expenses of such surveys, estimates, plans and location to be paid out of the sum herein appropriated for the improvement of the Illinois river."

Among other amendments to the River and Harbor bill Saturday were the following: Inserting an item of $10,000 for the Mississippi river above St. Anthony's Falls; inserting an item of $50,000 for strengthening Sny Island levee; increasing in the Mississippi river appropriation, from the mouth of the Illinois to the mouth of the Ohio, the words "and the improvement of St. Louis harbor;" increasing the appropriation for the Mississippi from the head of the passes to the mouth of the Ohio from $2,000,000 to $2,500,000; inserting item of $1,000,000 for the Missouri from Fort Benton to its mouth; directing examination and survey with a view to future work at Rock Island, Ill.; Clinton, Ia., and Osage River, Mo., but no appropriations were made.

Among the bills passed was one authorizing the Birmingham, Selma & New Orleans railroad to build a bridge across the Tombigbee, in Alabama. Thirty-eight private pension bills were also passed, and the Senate adjourned until to-day.

HOUSE.

The House passed the bill for the payment of the Fourth of July claims Saturday, and went into committee on the Tariff bill. The duty on flaxseed and linseed oil was increased from ten to fifteen cents per gallon, and licorice paste or rolls was increased from four to five cents per pound, and licorice juice was fixed at 25 per cent. ad valorem. The China section was reached and informally passed over to be referred to in the future. Mr. Bynum (Ind.) moved that the duty on glazed or enameled tiles be reduced from 50 to 45 per cent. ad valorem. This motion was agreed to in spite of the protests of Messrs. Buchanan and Lehlback (N. J.). At 5 o'clock the House adjourned.

THIS WEEK'S PROGRAMME.

It is expected that to-day's session of the Senate will be devoted to speech-making. Senator Morrill will speak in relation to steam railroads in the streets of Washington, and will be followed by Senator Hoar on the fisheries treaty. The River and Harbor bill and the Army Appropriation bills will be disposed of in advance of any other legislative business. No other appropriation bills will be ready for consideration this week. It is Senator Dolph's intention to press the Sea-Coast Defense bill during the week. The Territorial admission bills are also likely to be considered during the week.

It was the understanding when the House adjourned Saturday that the tariff debate should be suspended to-day in order to allow action upon the Union Pacific Funding bill, the Oklahoma Admission bill, the Nicaragua Canal bill and the Land-Grant Forfeiture bill. On Tuesday the detailed consideration of the Tariff bill will be resumed.

ADJOURNMENT TALK.

The members of both houses of Congress are getting uneasy and are talking about an adjournment, but no one believes that it will take place for six weeks yet at the earliest, and the session is liable to be prolonged into September. Senator Allison, who is as good a prophet as can be found in either House in this matter, sets the 20th of August as the day of adjournment, but he bases his calculation upon the assumption that the House will dispose of the Tariff bill by July 15, the date Mr. Mills has in view, but it will be very difficult for Mr. Mills to get his bill through by that time.

A CONTEST DECIDED.

WASHINGTON, July 2.—The House Committee on Elections has decided, by a strict party vote, in favor of Elliott, the sitting member, in the election contest in the Seventh South Carolina district.

Losses by Late Fires.

LONDON, July 2.—The property destroyed by the recent fires at Sundsvall and Umea, Sweden, was valued at 45,000,000 kroner. Twelve thousand persons were rendered homeless by the flames. King Oscar is visiting the districts, and is engaged in relieving the wants of the sufferers. Houses, forests and standing crops on farms in other districts were also burned.

Killed by a Bursting Saw.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., July 1.—John H. Norwood, brother of C. M. Norwood, candidate for Governor on the Union Labor ticket, met a horrible death near Buckner. While gumming a saw with an emery wheel at the Bodcow Lumber Company's mills a piece of the wheel flew off and struck him in the forehead, splitting the skull six inches.

Killed by a Train.

BRAZIL, Ind., July 2.—Mike Williams, aged 60, a widower, and Allen Campbell, aged 40, unmarried, were run over yesterday morning by the New York east-bound express on the Vandalia line a quarter of a mile west of the depot, and were both instantly killed. The couple had been drinking.

A Black Imp's Crime.

BALTIMORE, Md., July 2.—Charles Samuel Washington, a negro boy, cut the throats of R. S. Layton's two children at Florence, Howard County, Md. He said he was tired of caring for the children. He is in jail.

Life is a joy forever when you keep stomach and bowels in order by taking Vinegar Bitters.

A WARNING.

The modes of death's approach are various, and statistics show conclusively that more persons die from diseases of the Throat and Lungs than any other. It is probable that everyone, without exception, receives vast numbers of Tubercle Germs into the system and where these germs fall upon suitable soil they start into life and develop, at first slowly and is shown by a slight tickling sensation in the throat and if allowed to continue their ravages they extend to the lungs producing Consumption and to the head, causing Catarrh. Now all this is dangerous, and if allowed to proceed will in time cause death. At the onset you must act with promptness; allowing a cold to go without attention is dangerous and may lose your own life. As soon as you feel that something is wrong with your Throat, Lungs or Nostrils, obtain a bottle of Boschee's German Syrup. It will give you immediate relief.

SHERIDAN'S STRATEGY.

How, as a Boy, the General Outmaneuvered a Schoolmaster.

Phil's Dog, Rover, Keeps the Wielder of the Birch in a Desperate Situation—An Unconditional Surrender on the Part of the Pedagogue.

The following story, says the Chicago Inter Ocean, was credited in war times to Major Lyman J. Jackson, of the Eleventh Ohio Infantry:

"Phil Sheridan used to go to school at Somerset to an Irish school-teacher of the Irishest sort, named Patrick McNanly, who believed that the intelligence, morality and happiness of scholars depended upon a liberal use of birch, and this deponent can verily testify that in that he was truly scientific.

"One terribly cold morning of 1842 or 1843, two of Patrick's scholars got there a little ahead of time. They crawled in through the window to get warmed, and, once in, the chief enemy of mankind and school-boys, as well as the discovery of a bucket full of ice-water, tempted them to trick the teacher. They fastened the bucket of water over the door in such a manner that the opening of the door would tilt it upon the head of any one entering, and retired to watch the result from a neighboring haymow.

"Patrick soon came trotting along, rubbing his hands vigorously to keep them warm, hurriedly turned the key, and bolted in just as the bucket turned over his head. It is not a "bull" to say that his Celtic blood was heated by the chilling douse. His situation was a bad one. There wasn't a boy to beat anywhere about. He looked all around, inside and out, and there wasn't a soul to be seen. So he armed himself with a six-foot hickory twig, built on a rousing fire, and sat down to dry, fully determined to flog the first boy that entered.

"An unfortunate little fellow soon came, and almost at the instant his hand was on the latch Patrick seized him by the collar and shook him fiercely, to shake the truth out of him, he said. The astonished looks and astonishing yells convinced Patrick that that boy knew nothing of the outrage. Setting him down by the fire, he again placed himself in a position of attack.

"The next, and the next, and the next went through the same operation, and finally, when nearly all the school had been throttled and shaken into their seats, our two youngsters climbed down the haymow, entered the school-room, got their shaking and went to work. It happened that Phil Sheridan was late that morning, and as each one proved his innocence, the presumption became the stronger against the few who were left to suspect. Finally Phil came—the last, and, of course, the guilty one, if every body else was innocent.

"Just as he opened the door Patrick made a dive for him. Phil dodged and commenced a retreat. Patrick thought that a proof of his guilt, and pursued. Away went Phil up the street, and away went the teacher after him, bareheaded, stick in hand, the whole school bringing up the rear, all on the run. Phil lost a little on the home stretch, and by the time Mr. Sheridan's house was reached, his pursuer was too close to let him shut the gate, and on he broke into the back yard. There he got reenforcements in the shape of a Newfoundland pet dog, which instantly made an attack on Patrick's flank and rear.

"Patrick mounted the fence—so did Phil. The dog snapped at Patrick's heels, and he discovered it necessary to climb an apple tree, where he found himself out of breath, out of patience, and very completely outflanked.

"'Take away your divilish dog, Phil,' says he, 'or I'll bate the life of ye.'

"'Like to see you,' says Phil, 'watch him Rover,' and with that he got an old piece of carpet and laid it under the tree for the dog to watch over.

"The dog laid down on it, and Phil mounted the fence where he sat contemplative, with his chin in his hand and his elbows on his knees. 'What do you want to lick me for?' asked Phil.

"'What did you throw the water on me for!' was the answer.

"'I didn't throw any water on you.'

"'You did, though, bekase none of the boys did, and I'll polish you to death entirely, if you don't let me down.'

"He started down, but Rover went for his foot before it was nearly in reach and the teacher retreated up the tree, calling loudly for Phil's father. The noise soon brought Mr. Sheridan out. The teacher up the tree, the dog growling at him, Phil on the fence, and the whole school around, was too funny a scene to be closed without explanation.

"'What are you doing up that apple tree, McNanly?' asked Mr. Sheridan.

"'Ah, that divilish boy of yours, Misther Sheridan, will be the death of me yet. It's all his doin's, sir. He poured a whole bucket of wather on me this mornin', and when I wanted to give a dacent reprimand he ran away, and for the sake of the discipline of the school I went to catch him, and he got that gib baste of a dog of yours after me, and I had to climb the tree to defind myself.'

"'I didn't throw any water at all,' says Phil; 'all I know about it is that he went to whipping me this morning before I got in.'

"The old gentleman, probably enjoying the fun, and not being certain whether his boy ought to be whipped without reason, suggested to let the case await further inquiry.

"'Let him go without a floggin', Misther Sheridan! Shure it'll ruin the school to do that now; just look at them, will you? how they're laughing at me.' The old gentleman commenced calling the dog; it looked at Phil and wouldn't stir. 'Take away that divilish dog or I'll bate the life out of ye's both entirely,' says Patrick.

"'Better come down first,' Phil suggested; 'watch him, Rover. But I'll tell you what I'll do,' he added, after a pause, 'if you won't whip me I'll call him off. He won't go if father calls all day—besides, he sees you're imposing on me.'

"Patrick argued and protested and threatened, but it wouldn't do—the terms were unconditional. The hot race and cold water had got him into a terrible chill. The longer he talked in the air of a frosty January morning the colder he got, and the more hopeless his case became, especially when Phil intimated his intention to demand exemption from all future floggings.

"'I'll tell you what, Phil,' said he, finally, 'if you'll just call off that baste I'll not bate you this time, indade I won't.'

"'Why didn't you say so at first,' said Phil. 'Come away, Rover.' And away Rover did come; and away came the teacher almost too chilled to climb down.

"And this was the first surrender to Sheridan. Phil says his teacher kept his word in that affair, but put two floggings into every one that he afterward administered for new offenses."

The Easiest Remedy.

It is very difficult to construct telegraph lines in Tobasco on account of the constant interference and meddling of the monkeys. If the enterprising citizens of Tobasco will put up a few electric-light wires and give the monkeys a chance they will not be troubled with their meddling much longer. They are guaranteed to kill.

Many of the good things of this life are sorrowfully let alone on account of Dyspepsia. Acker's Dyspepsia Tablets will cure Dyspepsia, Indigestion and Constipation; sold on a positive guarantee at 25 and 50 cents, by Sold by Prentice & Evenson's, O P O

The Verdict Unanimous

W. D. Sult, Druggist, Bippus, Ind testifies: "I can recommend Electric Bitters as the very best remedy. Every bottle sold has given relief in every case. One man took six bottles, and was cured of rheumatism of 10 years' standing." Abraham Hare, druggist, Bellville, Ohio, affirms: "The best selling medicine I have ever handled in my 20 years' experience, is Electric Bitters." Thousand of others have added their testimony, so that the verdict is unanimous that Electric Bitters do cure all diseases of the Liver, Kidneys or Blood. Only a half dollar a bottle at Frank Sherer & Co's.

MARKING MERCHANDISE.

A Convenient Table for Merchants in All Lines of Business.

Many goods bought and sold by retail merchants are billed and vended by the dozen, says the Industrial World, and it often happens that in marking them the merchant is sometimes a little puzzled as to the percentage the selling price bears to the wholesale figures. After adding freight and cartage proceed by the following method. To make a profit of 20 per cent., divide the cost per dozen by ten. This is done by removing the decimal point one place to the left. To illustrate: If Ames' scoops cost $17.50 per dozen, delivered at store, remove the decimal point one place to the left, which will make $1.75 each, and what they should be sold for to gain 20 per cent. on the cost. The 20 per cent. is taken as a basis for the following reasons: We can determine it instantly, by simply removing the decimal point without changing or adding a figure. Therefore to mark an article at any per cent. profit we may use the following as a general rule: First find 20 per cent. profit as above, then as 20 per cent. profit is 120 per cent. of the cost and profit, add or subtract from this amount the fractional part that the required per cent. added to 100 is more or less than 120. The majority of merchants, in making their goods, generally take a per cent., that is, an aliquot part of 100, as 20, 25, 33⅓, 50 and so on. The obvious reason for this is, because it is much easier to add such per cent. to the cost, and a merchant could mark a dozen shovels, forks and hay knives at 50 per cent. profit in the time it would take him to calculate and mark one at 35 per cent. The following will be found very convenient for merchants in marking all articles bought by the dozen:

To make 20 per cent. remove decimal point one place to left.
To make 80 per cent. remove decimal point one place to left, and add ½ itself.
To make 60 per cent. remove decimal point one place to left, and add ⅓ itself.
To make 50 per cent. remove decimal point one place to left, and add ¼ itself.
To make 44 per cent. remove decimal point one place to left, and add 1-5 itself.
To make 40 per cent. remove decimal point one place to left, and add 1-6 itself.
To make 37 per cent. remove decimal point one place to left, and add 1-7 itself.
To make 35 per cent. remove decimal point one place to left, and add ⅛ itself.
To make 33⅓ per cent. remove decimal point one place to left and add 1-9 itself.
To make 32 per cent. remove decimal point one place to left, and add 1-10 itself.
To make 30 per cent. remove decimal point one place to left, and add 1-12 itself.
To make 28 per cent. remove decimal point one place to left, and add 1-15 itself.
To make 26 per cent. remove decimal point one place to left, and add 1-20 itself.
To make 25 per cent. remove decimal point one place to left, and add 1-24 itself.
To make 12½ per cent. remove decimal point one place to left, and subtract 1-16 itself.
To make 16⅔ per cent. remove decimal point one place to left, and subtract 1-36 itself.
To make 18⅔ per cent. remove decimal point one place to left, and subtract 1-96 itself.

For instance, a dozen hay knives cost $15, and 32 per cent. is to be added—then removing one point to left $1.50, and add 1-10—15—$1.65, the marking price.

A Profitable Investment.

It isn't always that a woman can afford to forego the quality of distinction in dress. They are telling of a man who died lately and left as a widow a young woman who had formerly been his cook. She was a good-looking and intelligent girl, it is said, but he paid no attention to her so long as he saw her only in kitchen attire. But she saved up two or three months' wages, invested the money in the handsome and becoming costume of a lady, carefully arrayed herself in it for an ostensible trip to the city, and then managed to show herself in that improved guise to her employer. She was no longer a mere servant in calico. She was transferred into a fine, handsome lady. They were married within a month, and now she is a widow with a fortune.

For the relief and cure of the inflammation and congestion called "a cold in the head" there is more potency in Ely's Cream Balm than in anything else it is possible to prescribe. This preparation has for years past been making a brilliant success as a remedy for cold in the head, catarrh and hay fever. Used in the initial stages of these complaints Cream Balm prevents any serious development of the symptoms, while almost numberless cases are on record of radical cures of chronic catarrh and hay fever after all other modes of treatment have proved of no avail.

—Mahon's boarders defeated R. L. Colvin's bakers in the ball game Saturday afternoon. The score stood thirteen to seven. Clark and Needham made up the Bean-eaters' battery, while Aikin and Hemmens covered the points of the Bakers.

—Con Ryan driver on the west side engine barely escaped a watery grave this morning. The sprinkling wagon broke down while he was on the seat, and laid him just where a good sized torrent of river water could babble and ripple over his helpless form.

—A very ingenious show case for Cuticream has been patented by Prentice & Evenson. It is in the form of a panel, with spaces for four bottles and a self-feeding magazine in the center, intended to be filled with smaller bottles for samples. The case can be put to many uses and is likely to prove a "bonanza."

—The single tap of the fire bells at 7:30 o'clock last evening, brought a large number of people to the streets. It was caused by the careless handling of one of the zincs in the alarm battery. The fellow who did it tried to hide in one of the battery cells, but his avoirdupois was too weighty.

—Night officer Ed Smith found an abandoned team of gray horses on the streets late last evening. He took the horses to the Central house barn where they were cared for. He would probably have taken the owner to the Ward domicile had he been fortunate enough to catch on to him.

The high school classes of '88, '89, '90 and '91, will spend the afternoon and evening at the Springs, before scattering for the summer vacation. —The two Methodists, the Congregational, Baptist and the Presbyterian churches united in the evening services last night, the services being held in the First M. E. church, Jackson street. The Rev. During her stay in Janesville, Miss Little has made many warm friends who will regret her departure from among them very much. May success attend her in her new field of labor.

—Of the many pleasant pastimes arranged for the Fourth of July, the picnic of Washington Hose Company No. 1, which will be held at Pope's Springs should be remembered. The committee has arranged a series of prize games and races besides other amusements to continue through the day and evening. Good music will be in attendance. The public is cordially invited to participate in the festivities.

—Mr. T. E. Gray, the contractor who put in the water mains here, and who is now engaged in laying water mains at West Superior, this state, arrived in the city Sunday morning. He left Superior on Saturday morning and says when he left that place the temperature was at the freezing point, and fires in the passenger coaches were a necessity. When the train reached a point forty miles this side of the "ridge" summer temperature was struck and the fires were allowed to go out. West Superior is just now in the midst of a building boom. business blocks and residences are going up as fast as masons can lay stone and brick and carpenters drive nails. He says Old Superior, four miles distant, has experienced but little change in forty years and is about ready for a cemetery.

LOCAL CAMPAIGN STYLES.

Janesville Politicians Promise to Make Things Very Lively.

What Will Be Worn in the Way of Hats, Buttons, Badges and Uniforms.

"This changing styles in hats during a campaign is a nuisance," said a west side traveling man this morning. "Last week I bought what they told me was a Harrison and Morton hat and now they tell me things have swung around so that it has come to be a 'Cleveland and Thurman.' I hope it will change back pretty soon. I hate to buy a new hat every other week."

According to local clothiers the 1888 styles in campaign hats are not yet firmly established. The impression is, however, that more high hats will be worn this year than any other style; that the democrats will wear white ones with black trimming and that the republicans will adopt the white hat and white trimmings or will trim with red, white and blue.

One enthusiastic republican, when he heard this, said:

"That's a good hat for the democrats—that black trimming; they need not change them when they go into mourning next November."

Campaign badges are just beginning to appear in town. Among republicans, the only style seen so far is the white porcelain button bearing the "R. L.—U. S." of the Republican League. A supply of buttons of this description has been sent to T. W. Goldin from the league headquarters. It is to be a campaign, however, of stars and stripes against bandanas and one form in which the republican emblem will appear will be a button, Harrison's name being printed on a white stripe across the center. Democrats have a small button bearing Cleveland's portrait.

Badges designed for republicans are out, the face being a representation of the stars and stripes.

The same design is also shown in campaign uniforms. It will seem odd to see dignified men marching through the streets of Janesville wearing jackets made up entirely of cloth patterned after the stars and stripes, but that is more than a probability this fall. This kind of uniform has been adopted by Nebraska campaign clubs, and is likely to be in Wisconsin. Some of the Nebraska delegates appeared on the floor in coats made of the American flag at the Chicago convention, attracting much notice.

As to other campaign equipments the edict has not yet gone forth. Janesville is well supplied with the torches that were left over from '84. If anything more elaborate is wanted it will be fancy lanterns with colored globes. Chicago dealers say that lanterns are to be the only correct thing and are preparing to handle large quantities of them. The popular styles are the small brass or nickle lantern with colored globes.

IN MEMORIAM.

Resolutions of Respect Adopted by Division No. 1, A. O. H., on the Death of James Dohany.

At a special meeting of Division No. 1, A. O. H., of Janesville, Wis., held in its hall June 27th, 1888, the following preamble and resolutions were unanimously adopted:

WHEREAS, It has pleased the Almighty Father to remove from our midst our late brother, James Dohany, and

WHEREAS, The intimate relations long held by our deceased brother with the members of our society have been of the most pleasant nature, this division deems it proper that we should place on record our appreciation of his services as a Hibernian and his merits as a man; therefore be it

Resolved, That while we bow with humble submission to the will of the Most High, we do not the less mourn for our brother, who has been called from his labors to eternal rest.

Resolved, That in the death of brother James Dohany this division loses an officer and brother who was always active and zealous in his work as a Hibernian, and ever ready to assist the needy and distressed, prompt to advance the interests of the order; devoted to its welfare and prosperity, and who was faithful to the obligations of his office. He was an honest and upright man, respected not only by his brethren of the order but all he came in contact with.

Resolved, That this division tender its heartfelt sympathy to the bereaved wife and fatherless children and relatives of our deceased brother in this hour of their sad affliction.

Resolved, That these resolutions be entered on the minutes of the division and a copy of them be sent to the family of our deceased brother; also, that they be published in the Janesville papers and Hibernian Record.

THE WILD PIGEON.

"Where are the wild pigeons?" In my boyhood in New Hampshire I used to see fairly large flocks and be able every year to secure a few, and that was but a few years after the great flights of which every one told, when these birds were netted by the thousand. Now I doubt if a wild pigeon is seen in New England. When a young man I used to see in Illinois and Wisconsin marvellous flights of migrating pigeons going over in flocks, 75 yards deep, and stretching out of sight both ways over the open prairie country, and squadron succeeding squadron almost every five minutes for two or three days, the roar of their wings sounding like the rush of many waters. In those days I used to hear of great pigeon roosts in Kentucky and Wisconsin. Does anyone see such migrating hosts in these days? I very much fear that the settling of the country leaves them no place half secure enough for breeding and that pitiless slaughter has made those marvelous flocks a thing of the past.—Forest and Stream.

SOME STRANGE BELIEFS.

Venerable and Extraordinary Superstitions About Teeth.

The back tooth of a horse, found by chance, will, say the Irish, keep you supplied with money.

If you wish to avoid the toothache, say the sons of Erin, never shave on Sunday.

Teeth have often been worn as amulets. Sharks' teeth serve this purpose in Samoa.

It was formerly thought that a wolf's tooth, worn in a bag about the neck, would chase fear away from the possessor.

In Nova Scotia, and in some parts of the United States, children are told that the new tooth will be a gold one if the tongue is kept out of the old cavity.

If a child teeth early, it is thought, in England, to predict more children. "Soon teeth, soon toes," is the adage both in that country and in Sweden.

An old work, published in 1633, tells us that to lose a tooth or an eye is also to lose some friend or kinsman, or is, at least, attended by some ill-luck.

If a tooth comes first in the upper jaw it is, people used to say, an omen of early death, as the child can not survive so potent a disaster.

In Sussex, England, a necklace of beads, made from peony root, was placed on the child's neck to assist the operation of teething, and one of amber beads was also thought powerful.

It was said that first teeth must not be thrown away when they fall out, for if any animal got such a trophy, the next tooth would be like that of the animal finding the old one.

A splinter of wood from a gibbet was thought efficacious in the north of England, while in Devonshire it was thought best to bite a tooth from a skull in a grave-yard and carry it in the pocket as a charm to cure toothache.

One of the Irishman's recipes for toothache bids you to go to a grave, kneel upon it, say three paters and three aves for the soul of the dead, then chew a handful of grass taken from the grave, spitting it out.

There was a tradition that from the time Chosroes, the Persian, carried off a piece of the true cross from Constantinople the number of teeth in the mouths of men were reduced from thirty-two to twenty-three.

"With an iron nail raise and cut the gum about the tooth until it bleed, and that some of the blood spill upon the nail. Then drive it into a wooden beam up to the head. After this is done you never shall have the toothache in all your life."

A work published in 1505 proscribes the following remedy for an aching tooth: The patient was to inhale the smoke from a vessel in which dried herbs were mixed with live coals. He must then breathe over a cup holding water mixed with wax and serum, when it was said that a worm, the cause of the trouble, would appear in the cup.

FOUND IN A CLEFT.

A Steed and His Rider Who Had Been Hidden There for Years.

Henry Martin, who resides up in the direction of Antelope Basin, W. T., recently came across a ghastly relic of early days which might well form the foundation for a tale of frontier life.

He was out prospecting in a wild and broken part of the country, where in the midst of an elevated plateau it is not uncommon to suddenly find oneself on the brink of a crevasse or cleft in the rock, a plunge down which would inevitably prove fatal, says the Laramie Boomerang. It was in examining one of these strange openings, formed during some tremendous convulsion of the earth ages ago, that Mr. Martin saw pinned between the adamantine walls far below him the whitened bones of a man and horse. He made a circuitous journey around the hill which brought him to where it was possible to enter the narrow gorge and by difficult climbing over ragged bowlders to reach the skeletons. He cautiously picked his way through for a distance of several hundred feet, and at length reached the object which had excited his curiosity. There was no doubt from the position of the animal and his rider that they had plunged headlong to their death either while being pursued or in some mad ride which did not leave time to check themselves on the brink of the yawning chasm.

The man must have been fully six feet in height, and between fifty and sixty years of age, the latter supposition being established by the fact that he had during life lost some of his teeth and the bone had grown over the cavities afterward.

The skull showed a rather intelligent forehead, the cheek-bones were prominent and the general shape of the head indicated that the bones were those of a Mexican. This theory was confirmed by the further discovery of a rich Mexican sombrero, with heavy gold trimmings, all in a good state of preservation.

The skeleton was found in a perpendicular position: the head downward and tightly pinned between the two walls of rock. The rider had fallen from his steed and the bones of the latter were similarly suspended, but twenty feet further up.

In a little basin at the foot of the gorge was discovered a copper plate about six inches square, and, strangest of all, a plug of tobacco of apparently ancient manufacture, but seemingly as perfect as when the dead man had put it in his pocket to solace him in his lonely ride across the hills.

GUATEMALAN BIRDS.

Parrots the Perfection of Whose Education Is Marvelous.

A Polly That Repeats the Lord's Prayer with Considerable Piety and One Which Imitates a Bad Boy—The Quetzal and Sopilote.

A letter from Quezaltenango, Guatemala, to the New York Times says: A small inhabitant of Central America not heretofore mentioned by me, but very deserving of it, is the "loro," or parrot. One sees many that are will taught in the United States, but I doubt if there are birds in any part of the world which have attained such perfection of education as those here. I heard one sing an "Ave Maria" from beginning to end without missing a word or note or uttering a false one. Another, belonging to a priest, could repeat the Lord's prayer, and should one not understand sufficient Spanish to know he would yet be instantly aware that the bird was praying, so perfect were his tones, imitating the low, solemn voice of his master. There are, of course, the great majority which wish to know every moment if there is "no bread for Polly," and those which use strong and emphatic language. Some persons teach their birds to repeat certain answers to certain questions, and in this way save themselves much annoyance. In Central American towns, the houses are built on a hollow-square plan, having an interior "patio," or court. The heavy double door leading in is usually open. Hay, wood and carbon or charcoal are sold from door to door by Indians carrying their loads on their backs. Whatever may be for sale is yelled at the door in very much the same voice that venders of oranges, strawberries and brooms used to call out in the streets of New York, but in this country the yelling is continued until an answer is obtained; and when a house is well supplied it is rather trying to patience and and latent temper to have "carbon!" thundered out in your yard every five minutes. So they put the parrot in a green tree, where it is difficult to see him, and he answers "No," and in a voice so human that not five "carbonniers" in a hundred can discover the deceit. All this is very agreeable should you not wish to buy any thing, but should you wish to buy something the parrot answers "No," just the same, and probably adds on a curse, which explains a common sight—that of a hatless, coatless man rushing out of his house into the street to call back an Indian who has just been dismissed by the parrot.

While staying in a hotel in Quezaltenango my room was next to that of a German family who had a splendidly-educated parrot and a little boy named Herbert. The parrot was as much a member of the family as any of the others, and, being constantly with them, he became very wise. Herbert was very often scolded and punished by his mother—oftener, I believe, than the little fellow deserved; and these punishments and Herbert's sobbing and crying made a decided impression on the bird. The little boy's father was often away, and I soon noticed that he turned to the parrot for companionship, as there were no little children for playmates. When the family left their rooms Polly was always locked up, and during these absences he would practice his repertoire, now singing some song, now swearing at some imaginary person. Then, in imitation of the mother and in her harsh, stern voice, he would cry out: "Herbert! Herbert! what do you mean by that? You bad boy," and after making a sound in imitation of a slap, he would cry and sob precisely like the child. Though I knew that the family owned this bird, yet he often deceived me and excited what at the time was unnecessary sympathy for Herbert.

A beautiful bird, and one now fast becoming extinct, is the "quetzal," the National bird of Gautemala: and with such reverence is he regarded that his engraving occupies the center of the postage stamps of the country. The body of the bird is about the size of that of a good-sized California quail; his general color is a beautiful emerald green, with a crimson and a yellow luster running through it; the small feathers of the head stand straight up, and his four or five tail feathers, which grow to the length of two feet, are rich green and red. His home is in the tallest mountains; he pines away and dies after a month of captivity, and even the Indians, who know his habits, are unable to keep him alive when away from his native haunts. It is said that his food is the plantain; but confined as a pet he does not relish it, prepared in most tempting ways. They say he dies should one of his tail feathers be broken. How true this may be I do not know, but it seems to have some foundation considering the great care he takes of them. His nest is built in cylindrical shape, with a hole at each end, and much resembles a lady's muff. He enters at one end and rests with his long feathers hanging out; in leaving his nest he never backs out—that would ruffle and break his feathers—and the Indians, knowing this, always approach his head and easily capture him. After death the crimson and yellow luster in a great degree disappears, and, this being the life of his green color, the stuffed specimen is never so handsome as the live bird.

The scavenger of the country is the sopilote, or large black buzzard. Every house has two or three of these birds continually watching for kitchen waste and other refuse of the house, and though they are assisted somewhat by many strange dogs the people are much indebted to them. Sanitary precautions are disregarded, and these birds have constituted themselves into a street-cleaning department, removing all the filth and carrion which would otherwise rot and fester in the hot sun to breed disease. Swarms of them hover on the outskirts of the towns to prey upon dead mules, horses and other animals. A mule's bones will be picked clean in two days, but before the meal commences he must have a haut gout, for though the buzzard be a gourmand he is nevertheless a gourmet.

Land Division in China.

Land in China is divided into more holdings than any other land in the world. It takes but a very small piece of land to support a Chinese family. The Chinese are the closest and most thorough cultivators in the world. Field hands in China are paid $12 per annum. The food is cooked by the employer. With his food he is furnished straw, shoes and free shaving—the last a matter which a Chinaman never neglects for any great length of time where it is possible to secure the luxury. It costs about $4 a year to clothe a Chinaman. Much of the land in China is divided up into gardens of areas as small as one-sixth of an acre.

Losing Its Racial Marks.

The colored race is changing in appearance and losing some of the birthmarks peculiar to it. The new generation is showing the effects of a higher culture. Especially is this noticeable in the towns, where contact with the whites shows its effect. The flat-nosed, kinky-headed negro is passing away and becoming an unknown race. All the colored children, no matter how dusky in hue, show the change. Longer hair, aqueline noses and smaller mouths, with thinner lips, are the rule.

RACE PECULIARITIES.

THE female half-breeds of Spanish and Indian blood in Yucatan are said to be by far the handsomest people in that country. They are described as a gentle, docile, pleasure-loving race, not altogether lazy, perfectly honest and remarkable cleanly in their habits.

IT is said that there are no words in the Japanese language for beef, butter and cheese except those framed from the English for convenience's sake. Previous to the arrival of foreigners in the country, milk, butter and cheese were not used by the natives for food.

THE women of Madagascar are not as much respected as those in Europe and America. The Marriage tie is severed at the pleasure of the husband, and polygamy results naturally. They are, however, regarded as the equals of men, and in them the sovereignty may be vested.

THE one great object in life of a Moorish lady is to get fat. The more flesh she gets the better she is pleased, as the Algerians as a rule value beauty by weight. The larger her proportions the larger her share in her husband's affections, a consideration of no mean importance in a country where wives are a staple article of commerce.

THE average Russian is said to drink from ten to twelve glasses of tea a day. Every Russian merchant has a tea-urn in his counting-room, and the lawyer or mechanic goes out to his café for tea as often as the German for beer or the Frenchman for wine. At the cafes at all hours of the day and night one can see crowds of people sipping tea.

THE Chinese do not drink cold water, and an iced drink is an abomination. They generally use instead weak tea in small quantity. The consequence is that dyspepsia is unknown. Water pipes are generally standing on a side table, and after meals almost every one, before leaving, lights a small bowl of tobacco, gives a puff or two, and passes the pipe to the next comer.

THE common people of Hamburg rarely eat meat, it is so dear. Soups are made in great variety, including one from beer. The poorer kinds of fish only are cheap. Economy is not confined to the poorer people. Servant girls are generally allowed for the week their loaf of bread and quarter or half-pound of butter or lard, and are only permitted to use a certain quantity at each meal, the rest being locked up with the family provisions till the next meal.

HERE is the Turkish form of an invitation to dinner: "My Generous Master, My Respected Lord—This evening, if it pleases Allah, when the great king of the army of stars, the son of worlds, approaching the kingdom of shades, shall put his foot into the stirrup of speed, you are invited to enlighten us with the luminous rays of your face, which rivals the sun. Your arrival, like the zephyr of spring, will drive away from us the somber night of solicitude and isolation."

IN the Cuban Islands there are special and strict forms of etiquette relative to the universal habit of smoking. Should a gentleman stop another on the street to ask a light he would construe a refusal to oblige him into a direct and intentional insult. But having once held between his fingers the partly-consumed cigar of whose fire he has been borrowing, the owner thereof would be as deeply hurt and offended were he to offer to return it. No, he must, instead, open his cigar-case and proffer a fresh weed in return for the fire.

POINTED AND PUNGENT.

FATHER—"What is your favorite hymn, Clara, my darling?" Clara—"The one you chased away last night, dear papa."

LAWYER (to witness)—"Did you say that an incompetent man could keep a hotel just as well as anybody?" Witness—"No. I said an inn-experienced man could."

WIFE—"I hope you will not feel lonesome whilst I am away," Husband—"Going to take the parrot with you?" Wife—"Why, no." Husband—"Then I'll not miss you at all."

"DID you know," said a cunning Gentile to a Jew, "that they hang Jews and jackasses together in Portland?" "Indeed?" retorted Solomon, "den it ish vell dat you and I ish not dere."

A YOUNG woman who wants to test the real depth of a young man's avowed affection has only to ask him to accompany her for an afternoon while she goes around to do a little shopping.

"REMEMBER, my son," said a fond but practical father, "that you must begin at the bottom and work up." "In every thing, father?" asked the young hopeful. "Yea, my son." "But, father, suppose I started to dig a well?"

"I WAS getting measured for a suit of clothes this mawning," said young Mr. Sissy to his pretty cousin; "and just for a joke, y'know, I awsked Snipem if it weally took nine tailors to make a man. He said it would take more than nine tailors to make a man of some people. I thought it was quite clevah."

"YES," said a young wife, "poor John is obliged to remain in town during the summer on account of business matters, but I shall leave in a few days for mother's, up in Vermont. He surprised me last night with a photograph of himself to take with me. Isn't it a fine picture?" "Perfect," replied the caller, "it has such a wonderfully pleasant expression."

A SYRIAN convert to Christianity was urged by his employer to work on Sunday, but he decli[illegible] "But," said the master, "does no[illegible] say that if a man has an ass or a[illegible] falls into a pit on the Sabbath da[illegible] pull him out?" "Yes," answered the convert; "but if the ass has a habit of falling into the same pit every Sabbath day, then the man should either fill up the pit or sell the ass."
